My name is Paul Harless and I have had the pleasure of knowing and working with Marshall Law for 25 years. I first came to know him as a friend and family man - he has a wonderful wife, Rosa and two very gifted children, Aaron and Jessica. Over the years, our family which includes my wife Lynn and son Justin Timberlake, has entrusted Marshall with the building and maintenance of all of our family's real estate projects. These include residential and commercial projects in Tennessee, California, Florida, New York and Montana. We could not be more pleased with the results, particularly the quality, speed and pricing of his workmanship. That being said, we would be remiss if we did not mention one of Marshall's most enjoyable qualities - a terrific service manner that always acknowledges that the customer is king.

On behalf of Lynn, Justin and myself, we would unequivocally recommend you consider engaging Marshall Law and his very talented construction team for your next residential or commercial project.

BUILDER MARSHALL LAW CONSTRUCTION
HOME PLANS SULLIVAN HOME PLANS

The drive from Memphis to the Buchignani residence in Rossville, Tenn. is a lengthy but pleasant journey. As the city recedes behind you, the traffic and the overpasses fade away into glassy-surfaced ponds and creeping roses on aging fences. An hour from downtown Memphis, you begin to see the appeal of green fields, old growth forests, and grazing bay horses. A sophisticated country home in this area was Jess Buchignani's dream. "I just loved the land and the open spaces," she says.

She sketched out the original ideas herself and employed a home planner to craft the final documents. With the help of custom builder Marshall Law Construction, she was able to make the dream a reality. "Marshall was really important to building this home," she says. "He was creative and was able to work out the specifics of the things I wanted." The screened-in porch was one such challenge, but the end result is an indoors-meets-outdoors room with a fireplace and plenty of seating. "I live on that screened-in porch," Jess laughs.

Her four enthusiastic dogs aren't the only animals that share the property with Jess. A charming garden adjacent to the house is home to scores of butterflies and dragonflies attracted by the blush roses and vibrant red, purple, and yellow zinnias. Birdhouses guard the perimeter, perched like their feathered inhabitants atop the unfinished picket fence. The stunning two-story front porch is hung with hummingbird feeders to attract the sparkling little birds.

The two-story south side of the home is brick with a rustic slurry finish and houses three bedrooms; the façade is Oklahoma flagstone laid in a rectangular pattern that is also used in the interior. The front door opens directly into the main living area, with a rustic cathedral-like ceiling of chestnut-stained timbers and a stone fireplace. The kitchen is a comfortable version of the usual galley kitchen, with marble countertops and stainless steel appliances that add a contrast to the stone and wood. "My style is formal things mixed with rustic things," Jess explains.

An old-fashioned wood burning stove and stovepipe in the kitchen is both an effective heating unit and a personal comfort for the homeowner. "My sister lives in Virginia and has a similar stove," she explains. "We used recycled newspaper [cellulose] for the insulation. My utility bill is very low even though this is not a small house," she explains.

Jess Buchignani chose to build a custom home because of her own creative impulses and the desire for a pastoral residence inspired by the land. Rustic natural materials and smooth surfaces are seamlessly woven together for a home that is deliberately designed but welcoming, homespun but elegant.

I had the pleasure of working with Marshall in 2008 building my home. He understood my goals and visions and brought alot of his own great ideas to the table.

Marshall is a quality builder, very creative, forward thinking and a great problem solver. He stands behind his work 100% and will come back for any reason. He has the greatest "Frame Crew" in town and other excellent sub contractors.

If I ever have the opportunity to build another home Marshall will be the person to do it.

AFTER THE Storm

Jane Harliff's backyard is a state park. "I always wanted a house in the woods, and to be close to nature," she explains. The peaceful setting of her home near Shelby Forest State Park is exactly what she imagined. The trees that surround her home provide a natural escape, but living in a forest comes with its own set of problems. On April 19, 2011, Jane was at home alone when a tornado uprooted a nearby tree that then crashed into her house. "The fire in the fireplace went out, and then I heard the freight train sound. I heard the tree ripping up from the roots, and it was all over in five minutes," she recalls.

Built in 1972, the house originally boasted linoleum, "avocado green" countertops, oak panel cabinets, and wall-to-wall carpet. By the time Jane moved in, the place was in need of a total makeover. A landscaper by trade, she handed over the reins to Marshall Law of Marshall Law Construction and her sister-in-law, who worked together on the first remodel. They painted each room a different vibrant color, using green, red, blue, and gold hues for a lively and cheerful look. New wood floors, a vaulted wooden ceiling and glazed cabinetry in kitchen created polished but natural spaces.

Only three years after the first remodel, the fallen tree destroyed part of the updated home. Jane explains that it fell from one corner of the house to the other, crashing through the chimney and upstairs rooms. The kitchen was an impassable mess. Marshall Law Construction came back and gutted the space, then recreated the remodeled kitchen from scratch. "It's almost identical to the way it was before," Jane explains. Wood floors, a wormy maple wood vaulted ceiling and deep burnt-orange walls give a warm feeling to the kitchen. The cabinets are also wormy maple wood, but with a glaze finish. Stainless steel appliances keep the look updated. The countertops are nonporous Cambria, and the diamond-patterned backsplash is of un-honed travertine – a nod to the rustic setting of the home.

IN THE FIRST REMODEL, MARSHALL LAW CONSTRUCTION TURNED TWO TINY JACK-AND-JILL BATHS INTO A SINGLE MASTER BATH UPSTAIRS. AFTER THE TREE RIPPED THROUGH THE BATHROOM WALLS, THEY WERE ABLE TO RECREATE THE UPDATED BATH. THE ROOM NOW BOASTS A GLASS WALK-IN SHOWER WITH A FULL SHOWER SYSTEM, TUB, AND CAMBRIA COUNTERTOPS, ALONG WITH PORCELAIN TILE FLOORS. TRUE TO THE VARIED PALETTE OF THE HOME, THE BATHROOM WALLS ARE PAINTED A DEEP GOLDENROD COLOR - GONE FROM A CRAMPED CLOSET TO A CHEERY SPACE AND BACK AGAIN.

To Whom It May Concern:

We first found Marshall Law Construction after seeing some of his work featured in FIX magazine. After our initial meeting with Marshall, we knew he was the man for our job.

Marshall listened to our needs and gave us a detailed list of every step of the building progress. We always knew what was going on and who would be on the job every day. His staff and all of the contractors were very professional, and dependable.

Marshall was always there to solve any problems that would arise and was always available to answer any of our concerns.

The workmanship done by Marshall Law Construction is top quality. His work ethics and integrity are beyond the normal. In Marshall Law's own words..... I treat each job as if I am doing it for my own home, and would settle for nothing less. We are very pleased with the construction of our new garage and swimming pool.

Marshall Law Construction would be the only contractor we would recommend to our friends and family.

Sincerely,
Jim and Annetta Ferguson

It is my pleasure to write a testimonial regarding Mr. Marshall Law. I have known Marshall for 4 years. Over that time he has completely redone a contemporary home in East Memphis, added two rooms to an 1866 house in Moscow, TN., and completed several other smaller projects. The work performed by Marshall and his crew is of the highest caliber. Marshall's two greatest assets are his honesty and his work ethic. He values his personal and business reputations above all else. There were no problems encountered beyond his expertise and his business connections certainly saved us money. Not only will Marshall be a great contractor, he will always be available should any problems arise after the construction is finished. His knowledge of the construction business is amazing. In both of our major projects he made sure the construction methods and materials were in keeping with the age and concept of the house. This meant reaching into a bag of tricks to match the construction methods used on the Moscow home. Marshall will be fair and straight in his discussions and will not cut corners. We highly recommend him.

To Whom It May Concern:

It is with great pleasure that I write this letter of recommendation for Marshall Law and Marshall Law Construction.

Marshall completed the renovation of a bathroom and repairs to an investment home I own in East Memphis. From my first meeting with Marshall I found him to be professional and straightforward regarding this project. His estimate was clear and concise. During the construction phase the work progressed in a timely manner and he kept me informed of all progress, including when various sub-contractors would be working at the house. The work was completed on time and within budget. In the end the house looked great, as not only does Marshall do excellent work, he also follows through with all his commitments to complete "the little things" and left the house move-in ready.

After building two homes and re-modeling two others I have had much experience with building contractors and consider Marshall among the best in his field and in Memphis. I highly recommend him for your building project.

Mr. Marshall Law
Marshall Law Construction

Dear Marshall:

It is not very often I write a letter of recommendation. However, it is with great pleasure that I write this letter.

I have had the good fortune to be acquainted with Marshall for over six years. I have used his services several times and with each and every project Marshall, his son, Aaron, and all of their employees were professional, respectful, meticulous, and first-rate in every way.

It is becoming all too rare these days to find individuals and a company that goes to such great lengths to satisfy its customers. It is very evident that his success will show you that his "old-fashioned" work ethics of hard work, integrity, quality and consideration for customers are values that our society has awarded to Marshall.

Finally, I'm still unsure how I got fortunate enough to find a friend and professional like Marshall, who has always had the ability to make molehills out of mountains, but I thank God I did.

Very best Regards,

Re: Marshall Law Construction

To whom it may concern –

I first started working with Marshall Law Construction a few years ago after cycling through a number of contractors who did a great job selling you up front, but left you frustrated during and after the work was completed. All prior frustrations and issues with contractors evaporated after we started conducting business with Marshall. Marshall Law's professional qualities are quick to prove themselves:

Professional

Marshall insured our construction needs were thoroughly discussed, understood, and a solid plan based on time and budget needs was delivered. His staff and contractors all share in Marshall's professionalism as demonstrated in their quality of workmanship, work ethic, and courtesies extended to my family while on the jobsite.

Dependability

Marshall does exactly what he says he's going to do when he says he'll do it. We've had a few issues with our house over the past couple of years that Marshall helped resolve without any fees – He simply stepped up to help a customer out when there was need.

Accountability

Marshall provides a clear sense of accountability to the entire construction process. There are never any excuses, and it's very apparent his staff and contractors share in this same trait.

Quality

My wife often jokes about my level of expectations being too high. Marshall Law's personal expectations from his staff and contractors, and attention to detail, is far beyond anything I've ever personally experienced. He simply expects much, and clearly treated my construction needs as if they were his own.

The bottom line is Marshall Law Construction provides a clear piece of mind as an expert construction business. The professionalism, dependability, accountability and quality starts when he first shows up, and have remained evident for the life of my home. He is the only contractor I would personally recommend to friends and family.

Sincerely,

Everett J. Stephens
